"Up To Fuehrer" -- Chamberlain

DANGER OF WAR STILL PREVAILS, COMMONS HEARS

John Bull's Entire Armed Force Ready To Fight For Poland

CHEERS GREET SPEECH

Six Points Established By Minister In Historic Warning To Adolf

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The danger of war is still rife in the world and the sole hope of peace hinges on the attitude of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of Commons today.

In a historic address again warning Nazi Germany that Britain will fight in defense of Poland, Chamberlain reiterated that "catastrophe is not yet on us" but emphasized the whole armed forces of England were prepared for instant combat.

Here were the main points set forth by the 70-year-old prime minister as he told a tense House of Commons and the entire world that the spectre of a new general war could not be laid until Hitler gives the word:

1.—The danger of war has not receded.

2.—Britain remains determined to fight if Poland is attacked and the entire British navy and air force have been placed in readiness for instant war.

3.—On the nature of Hitler's reply to British proposals, now being formulated in Berlin, the issue of peace or war depends.

4.—The Fuehrer has emphasized the urgency of a solution of the German-Polish problem.

5.—Hitler desires a lasting Anglo-German agreement, and this wish is shared by England.

6.—Everything hinges on the manner in which the immediate differences between Poland and Germany can be handled.

Adjourn Until Tuesday

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax made a similar statement to the House of Lords and parliament then adjourned until next Tuesday, subject to recall in emergency.

"I cannot say the danger of war has receded," Chamberlain told the House.

The prime minister arose at 8:52 a. m. (Circleville time) to address the specially-summoned parliament on the situation brought about by his dispatch of a new communication to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler urging peaceful negotiation of Europe's crisis.

"There has been little change in the situation since the house last met," Chamberlain said, "but I cannot say that the danger of war has receded."

"It is once more necessary to urge the press to exercise utmost restraint at this time."

"There has been no change in the policy of His Majesty's government."

This statement was greeted with thunderous cheers.

Ellis Island Investigates Passengers; Washington Detains Bremen

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Seventeen passengers aboard the North German Lloyd liner Bremen were whisked to Ellis Island for investigation today as federal agents prowled outside decks and the interior, down to the holds, of the luxury liner now held in port by an unexpected ruling from Washington.

Those detained arrived on the vessel last night and remained aboard until they were hustled off to the immigration office at Ellis Island. Emphasizing the war-time spirit that enveloped the Bremen was the arrival of a group of 30 doctors and surgeons who boarded the ship for the return voyage to their homeland.

Officials at Ellis Island said the group—10 men and seven women—were being detained for the following reasons:

Doubtful status.

No immigration visa.

Physically defective.

Likely to become public charges.

The office of the commissioner of Ellis Island was reluctant to divulge the identities of the passengers who were taken from the Bremen as a score of customs inspectors, their sharp eyes alert for anything out of the ordinary, swarmed over the huge ship.

MANY PUT NAMES ON APPEAL FOR BALLOT ON LAW

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29.—Democratic state headquarters received optimistic reports today from four large counties that they would equal or exceed their quota of names necessary to force a referendum on the civil service reorganization bill.

Democratic State Chairman Arthur L. Limbach was informed by the Hamilton County organization that hundreds of names above the quota would be turned in. Lucas County promised from 12,000 to 15,000 names on petitions, while Clark County reported it would have 5,000 names.

Limbach also received assurances from rival Democratic factions in Cleveland that sufficient names would be filed from Cuyahoga County.

Finances And Material For Publication Come From Berlin, Witness Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The Dies committee decided to recommend to the Department of Justice that it proceed with prosecution of William Dudley Pelley, head of the anti-Semitic Silver Shirts, for alleged violation of the income tax laws and an act requiring propaganda agents of foreign countries to register with the state department.

The decision came after the committee had received testimony from one of its own investigators, R. B. Barker, concerning Pelley's finances and publication of material in this country which Barker said originated in Germany.

Pointing out that the Registration Act affects persons who "act" as propaganda agents for foreign principles, whether by agreement or not, Chairman Martin Dies (D-Texas) asserted that he believed action by the department was justified.

Barker produced bank, post-office and express company records yesterday showing that between Oct. 16, 1931, and June 30, 1939, the gross revenue of Pelley and his organizations has totaled at least $174,014.

Transactions Checked

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 29.—The West Virginia Congress of Industrial Organizations has a description of U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft today as an opponent of WFA.

Ted Silvey, Columbus, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Industrial Union Council, told the group that Taft voted for a cut in the WPA and "to throw people off the WPA."

"By one vote in the senate we lost a sufficient appropriation for the WPA," Silvey declared.

DARBYVILLE BOARD ORDERS STUDENTS TO SCHOOL AT FOX

The controversy over assignment of Muhlenberg Township High School pupils to the Monroe Township building at Five Points and abandonment of the Muhlenberg board advanced another step Monday evening when members of the Muhlenberg board adopted a resolution that will send 27 or 28 high school pupils to the Jackson Township School at Fox.

The step was in direct opposition to the ruling of the Pickaway County Board of Education that Muhlenberg upper classmen should attend Monroe instead of Jackson.

A temporary injunction has been obtained in Common Pleas court by the Muhlenberg board to prevent transfer of the district to Monroe. No date has been set for the hearing for a permanent injunction as asked in the petition.

Members of the Muhlenberg board met last Saturday with E. N. Dietrich, state director of education, and declared that Dietrich told them that "if I were a resident of Muhlenberg township I would send my high school children to Jackson Township school." This stand, according to members of the board, is in contrast with the recommendation of the State Department of Education that the Muhlenberg High School be abandoned.

Arrangements Completed

Muhlenberg board members declared that they had completed arrangements with the Jackson Township board to handle the pupils. "We have completed all necessary arrangements with Jackson," one board member said, "and now we are taking application (Continued on Page Eight)

GORDON'S AUTO FOUND, POLICE KNOW NOT WHERE

Police Chief William McCrady asked the State Highway Patrol Tuesday, to aid him in locating a little automobile, Councilman Ben H. Gordon's Crosley, either in the city or state of New York.

The search for the location of the car was started Monday evening when officers were informed that a Circleville woman, in a telephone conversation with a woman in New York City, was told the car had been recovered and four persons held. With this information the chief hoped he might be able to obtain some additional information through the State Highway Patrol.

Circleville police have a charge of obtaining property under false pretenses against George H. Groom, 20, of South Scioto Street, alleged to have taken the car for a "tryout" and made a trip to the World's Fair. Police understand another Circleville youth and two girls from Lithopolis made the trip.

The police chief believed he would receive some information later Tuesday either from authorities in New York City or state, or the Ohio State Highway Patrol.

A shaft on the sulky pierced the jumper's heart. Sopher and Hall were bruised.

German Newspapers, Radio Let Up Attack On Polish Atrocities, Indicating New Developments; Goering In Conference

Capital Says Visit Of High Foreign Personality Expected; Molotov Or Moscicki May See Der Fuehrer

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—Initial reports from British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson on Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's preliminary verbal reply to some points in the British note were flown to London today.

David Boyd, "mystery man" of the British foreign office, who accompanied Henderson on his last trip from London, took off unobtrusively for London carrying the reports.

(Editor's note: Bearing one English and two German passengers, the plane referred to in the foregoing arrived at Heston aerodrome near London before noon.)

Boyd also carried Henderson's report on the attitude shown by Hitler in the course of their long conversation last night. This will be more concretely reflected in a written note the Fuehrer is expected to transmit to London.

Meanwhile, the British government should now have a good advance idea of what to expect.

Newspapers Change Tone

Indicative of the present trend was the fact that German newspapers and agencies and the radio considerably toned down the atrocity campaign against Poland, although they were obviously all set to resume it at a moment's notice if necessary.

It can be definitely stated at the present moment that a "way out" is now accepted as a possible alternative to war. But a means of settling the issue at stake has not yet been found, with Hitler insisting that Britain and France must discover a way of cutting the Gordian knot.

With Field Marshal Hermann Goering and Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, the Fuehrer lengthily studied all implications of the note handed in at the chancellery late last night by the British ambassador.

He also summoned a number of legal experts and consulted his military leaders throughout the day.

Notes Opening Doors

Responsible quarters indicated that some further communication from London would be expected in reply to Hitler's own answer, in which, it was declared, he is closing no doors if not actually pushing them wider open.

In view of the exchange of letters and telephone consultations between Hitler and Mussolini in the last few days and again today, it can be taken for granted that (Continued on Page Eight)

ANOTHER HITLER 'PURGE' AIRED IN PARIS CIRCLES

PARIS, Aug. 29.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler has carried out another "purge" within the Reich, Genevieve Tabouis, well known French political commentator, reported today.

The "purge," she said, began last Thursday night and finished Sunday. Many German papers were said to have displayed blanked out columns where their reports were censored.

The Fournier (French) news service reported that tracts have been distributed in the free city of Danzig announcing that historic events will occur tomorrow and exhorting the populace to remain calm, asserting the conflict will not explode in Danzig but elsewhere.

The tracts state that Italy will be loyal to Germany, but Yugoslavia is accused of a "shameful betrayal" of the axis, according to Fournier.

POLE RAILROAD STATION BLAST FATAL TO SEVEN

Tarnow Tragedy Scene; One German Nabbed After Disaster

WARSAW, Aug. 29.—Polish-German tension reached a new peak today when seven persons were killed in a bomb explosion on the railroad at Tarnow.

The blast partially destroyed the Tarnow station at an important junction on the line into German-controlled Slovakia.

Authorities said one German and one German-born Pole were arrested.

Continuing the mobilization and civilian defense measures, Poland announced that not one inch of her territory would be given up, while the press maintained its series of accounts of border incidents.

German troops in the Sylau district undermined bridges from Poland into East Prussia, was charged.

Continued distribution of gas masks in Danzig has thrown the city's populace into a panic, according to Warsaw reports. Nation cards will be introduced tomorrow, it was asserted. Many members of the Anti-Nazi Danzig opposition were said to be fleeing into Poland.

Movements Marked

(German troops have occupied the whole of Eastern Slovakia, the London Daily Telegraph reported from Warsaw. German troops, said the account, also are massed along the Vah River. Troop movements have been marked particularly on the Slovak-Hungarian frontier, according to the Telegraph.)

Poland's reaffirmed stand against Germany was set forth in the Courier Foranny, which is connected closely with the foreign office, as follows:

"Poland will not give up one inch of land. No enemy shall pass our frontiers."

"Nobody will interfere directly or indirectly with our interests, for Poland stands as one man, strong and united, with full knowledge of the responsibility of its decisions and its duty to honor and to civilization."

RAUSENBERGER'S ESTATE VALUE FIXED AT $23,721.86

Edwin H. Rausenberger, prominent Circleville sportsman, left an estate valued at $23,721.86, according to an inventory and appraisal filed Tuesday in Probate Court.

The report lists personal goods at $560, cash at $6,436.88, bonds, notes and securities of $13,818.29, accounts receivable of $546.69 and real estate valued at $1,910.

During Mr. Rausenberger's lifetime he set aside $80,000 to establish the Edwin H. and Nellie M. Rausenberger Conservation Foundation. The income from this fund is to be used for "conservation education, development and improvement among Ohio boys and girls."

EUROPE'S EYES ON LONDON FOR WAY TO PEACE

Diplomats Believe Fuehrer Forced To Back Down By Decisions

ADOLF'S 'BLUFF' CALLED
Formula May Be Reached To Prevent War, Some Capitals Believe

By International News Service
A new and sudden "will to peace" — perhaps transitory but none the less welcome — emerged in weary Europe today and the impetus came from the capital where preparations for the next war were launched more than six years ago.

On the brink of a cataract, a drowning man will grasp the frailest wisp of a hand-hold. And on the more placatory attitude expressed today in Berlin the world today based a slim hope that war might be averted.

The eyes of everyone naturally turned again to London, where the House of Commons assembled in solemn conclave. At the moment the speaker's gavel descended, there came the cheering word from the British foreign office that Adolf Hitler had not rejected "out of hand" the measures of settlement proposed by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

How can this unexpected moderation of the German attitude be explained?

It is easy to say that the so-called "democracies" of Europe have "called Hitler's bluff." It is a simple expedient to ascribe the slightest backdown on the Fuehrer's part to a fear of extinction by superior armies on a battlefield.

Renunciation Vital

Yet a long-range view requires a deeper analysis than this. The most important element of the situation at this moment is England's renunciation of the status quo in Europe.

By the mere process of proposing negotiation and adjudication of issues presumably settled for all time by the Treaty of Versailles, Britain has shown herself agreeable to a "new deal" in Europe, and this in itself is a signal victory for Hitler.

To be sure, England demands that the present menace of force in Europe be removed. Hitler, on the other hand, has insisted that Danzig and the Polish Corridor be handed over to him as a prerequisite to any negotiation.

There may yet be some complicated formula by which these two divergent attitudes can be reconciled without too much losing of face on either side. There must be, of course, if war is to be avoided at all.

It must not be overlooked that the entire foreign policy of Adolf Hitler originally was based on the flat refusal of Britain and France to consider the slightest revision of the war treaties.

Bitter condemnation of this intransigent stand runs through the pages of "Mein Kampf" like a symphony of hate. In his famous book, the Fuehrer frequently boasts of the unpopularity of Nazism with the rest of the world. His attitude might be colloquialized.

"So England and France do not like me. Well, it serves them right! If the allies had not tried to crush Germany for all time at the end of the World War, the National Socialist regime might never have been born."

Historians Agree

Truer words than these never were spoken. Unbiased historians agree that the world today is reaping the bloody harvest of seeds sown when a group of victors gathered in the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles and, over the protest of a far-seeing American delegation, committed Europe to the pledge of making Germany a vanquished nation forever.

Britain's attitude therefore is every bit as important as that of Hitler, the man identified throughout the world as the dictator of war or peace in Europe.

WHEN those hard-fighting, hard-drinking cowboys in "Frontier Marshal" stepped off the set, it was a mighty different story.

Night exterior scenes were being shot for the 20th Century-Fox production, which comes to the Grand theatre on Wednesday with Randolph Scott and Nancy Kelly in the leading roles.

The studio commissary provided hot drinks for the gun-toting cowboys between scenes. "What'll it be, boys—coffee?" asked an attendant.

"Naw!" went up the cry from these hard-boiled hobsnobs. "We'll take hot chocolate!"

DAVIS TO KEEP BENCH IN PIKE ELECTION PROBE

WAVERLY, Aug. 29 — Common Pleas Judge Jacob E. Davis today prepared to impanel a special grand jury to investigate alleged corrupt election practices in Pike county after an affidavit of prejudice to remove him from the bench was ruled "insufficient."

State Supreme Court Justice Carl V. Weyandt made the ruling on the affidavit, filed by Crary Davis, special prosecutor for the Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert. Davis had been assigned by Herbert to conduct the grand jury probe.

Impanelling of the jury was expected to get under way next Monday under Judge Davis, a former Democratic floor leader in the House of Representatives. The affidavit of prejudice was based on the fact that Judge Davis was a member of the Pike county Democratic executive committee which recommended appointment of the two Democratic members of the board of elections.

ILLNESS, DEATH IN OHIO RIVER ARE A CHECKED

BELLAIRE, Aug. 29 — Disturbed by an outbreak of a serious dysentery disease, a United States Public Health surgeon and two state health department men were to arrive in Bellaire today to investigate the cause of four deaths and nearly 100 illnesses.

A check of the water system at nearby Powhatan showed the supply to be satisfactory and Health Commissioner W. J. Shepard of Bellaire admitted he was puzzled by the malady.

Latest death occurred Sunday when John Bokulich, five, son of John Bokulich, Sr., succumbed to the disease in Bellaire hospital. A sister, Rose Marie Bokulich, was in serious condition in the hospital and another sister was taken home from the hospital Sunday.

The three children of Alvin Stump, Powhatan, died within a week of each other early this month. They were Elsie Lee, 3, Betty Lou, five months, and Joanne, 2.

Dr. R. H. Markwith, state health director, said Shepard told him there were 40 cases in Bellaire and 30 in Powhatan. Numerous others were reported in nearby villages.

Markwith said Dr. Phillip Forbeck, Cincinnati, surgeon of the U. S. Public Health Service, would meet Thomas R. Lathrop, health department engineer, and Leo Ey, laboratory chief, in Bellaire today and attempt to check the spread of the strange malady.

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

HENRY GEORGE

"Purchase by Marshall Field & Company of the land occupied by its State Street retail store and annex was completed yesterday with the delivery of a check for fifteen million dollars." This item appeared in the press the other day.

Mind you, nothing was bought but the bare land. The building on it already belonged to the tenant buyer. Here was a landlord, the estate of a dead man, collecting $15,000,000 for land it had not created, which it had not even improved. Bare land, just as God made it. Not a stick nor a stone represented any value contributed by the dead man or his heirs.

The land was valuable only because millions of other men had put their sweat and toil into surrounding property and business. But the people who created the value, the citizens of Chicago, did not receive the value. That went to the heirs of a dead man, a handful of people in a city of millions. They reap where others sow. Like men in a mountain pass, they collect tribute from the passing caravans of trade. Such is the unearned increment.

September 2nd in the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Henry George. I read his moving and eloquent book, "Progress and Poverty" by the light of a kerosene lamp in a Vermont farm house when I was only fourteen years old. I have never outgrown the impression it made upon me. No one has ever given a reason convincing to me why one landlord, like the Astor estate in New York, should be permitted to extract millions of dollars of rent for the use of something in the making of which it had contributed nothing. In the sweat of other people's brows, it eats bread.

This tribute means that the price of every article sold in every store that pays it must be loaded to collect the tribute from the pockets of those who buy; that the rent of every room is that much higher, that those who pay this unjust rent must have a lower standard of living and a harder time in life. It has always seemed to be one of the least defensible of all special privileges. Land monopoly has left a long and bloody track in many lands such as Ireland and Spain.

So I agree with the main thesis of Henry George, that bare land which God made should be taxed more, and buildings and goods which men make should be taxed less. I think some of the enthusiasts in the single tax movement have done their cause harm by claiming too much for it and so making it appear less sound than it really is. Men have long since become suspicious of panaceas.

But this does not impair the validity of the essential teaching of Henry George. The anniversary of his birth will be celebrated throughout the world. It will serve mankind if it turns their thinking to this great problem of the unearned increment.

It is interesting to note the work being made by some of Mr. George's followers. In New York City, for example, they have a School of Social Service, with a five story building, 20,000 students have taken its courses — a large alumni group for any school. In New Orleans the Benjamin Franklin Research Society is engaged in patient research of this problem, which has commanded the support of such men as Count Tolstoy, Lloyd George, Philip Snowden, Sam Gompers, Woodrow Wilson, Louis D. Brandeis, Newton Baker, William Gorgas, Joseph Fels, N. G. Ingersoll, Theodore Roosevelt, and countless others.

The question is: Why should society permit anyone to collect rent for bare land he does not use and has not improved? Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson puzzled over this question before Henry George stated it so clearly. Lincoln said, "The earth that God gave to man for his home, his sustenance and support, should never be in the possession of any man, any more than air or water. An individual or enterprise requiring land should hold no more in their own right than is needed for home and sustenance. All that is not so used should be held for the use of every family to make homes, steads, and to hold them as long as they are so occupied."

"The earth", Thomas Jefferson wrote, "belong in usufruct to the living and is given as a common stock for men to live and labor on."

At a much later date Theodore Roosevelt said, "The burden of municipal taxation should be so shifted as to put the weight of taxation upon the unearned rise in value of the land itself, rather than upon the improvements."

Today while private hands continue to collect the unearned increment, people are tearing buildings down in order to stop paying taxes on the buildings. There is a commentary for you! And while that goes on, at terrific cost and only because they are subsidized from the public treasury, we are putting up slum clearance projects, the benefit of which will largely accrue to adjacent land owners in increased ground rent.

Today the owner of vacant land is often better off not to improve it. So we have the ill housed. If we were to encourage construction by exempting or even considerably lowering the tax on buildings, we would do much for reemployment. We might start the long awaited "new industry".

CCC BOYS MAY BE CHANGED TO ARMY MEMBERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 — Agitation for militarization of the 300,000 boys in the Civilian Conservation Corps was certain to develop in definite manner should Europe go to war—or at least so said men closely identified with the CCC today.

It was predicted that should President Roosevelt be forced to call a special session of congress to revise neutrality, a companion piece of legislation would be introduced from the floor and pressed vigorously to put guns into the hand of America's forest army.

To date the idea of giving these boys strict military training has been abhorred and shunted aside. There was a growing feeling today, however, that the CCC might well be turned overnight into a full-fledged adjunct of the National Guard, ready for any armed emergency.

So far as neutrality was concerned, every indication pointed to a quick and successful special session call of congress should Europe go to war.

Responsible members of both house and senate who voted against the President's neutrality proposals last session conceded privately today they would change their votes. How many were in this category was not known because congress stood adjourned, but those who were available included some of the President's outstanding Democratic opponents in the session that defiantly closed on August 5.

The clerks, however, have had their revenge. Several times the "Balloon Barrage" has been "shot down" by well directed paper clips, propelled by husky government rubber bands, and fired from the windows of the building.

TOUGH JOHN

O. John Rogge, forthright young Assistant Attorney General in Louisiana, may be a good Democrat, but certain other Democrats don't think so. They are having a tough time making him listen to political expediency.

The other day one of them, Freeman W. Burford of the East Texas Refining Company, called Rogge on the long distance telephone from Dallas. Burford had been indicted in connection with a hot oil deal which also involved ex-Governor Leche of Louisiana, but had refused to go from Texas to Louisiana to surrender, and Federal Judge Davidson of Texas had upheld him.

So, calling Rogge in New Orleans, Burford said:

"I want you to know, Mr. Rogge, that I'm a good Democrat. I'm for Roosevelt for a third term, and just the other day I helped the Young Democrats in their move for a third term. You and I have a lot of things in common, so let's talk this thing over. I believe I can help you on this case."

"I'll be glad to talk to you," replied Rogge, "but first it's up to you to come in here and surrender."

Burford talked at great length—30 minutes worth of long distance tolls—but Rogge's reply

"PUBLIC ENEMY" AND WIFE HELD IN ROBBERIES

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 — Joseph Paul Cretzer, 29, alleged to be the last of a notorious Pacific coast robber gang, and his red-haired wife, Edna May Cretzer, charged with harboring her husband, were to be arraigned before a U. S. district commissioner in Chicago today.

Both were seized at Mrs. Cretzer's Chicago apartment yesterday and, according to the F.B.I., will be removed to the west coast for prosecution. The arrests were made by G-men under D. M. Ladd, local F.B.I. chief. Cretzer had a revolver but did not resist, it was stated.

Cretzer, listed as "public enemy number four," was declared by federal officers to be one of a robber gang who obtained at least $40,000 in loot from small banks along the Pacific coast. Other alleged members of the gang previously taken into custody were Arnold Thomas Kyle, arrested with his wife in Minneapolis last May, and John Oscar Hetzer, 26. Kyle is Mrs. Cretzer's brother. A third man, Milton David Harmon, killed himself while G-men were preparing to arrest him in a Los Angeles hotel.

Scioto Board Votes To Operate Orient School

The Scioto Township Board of Education, meeting in a called session Monday night, voted unanimously to operate the one room school in Orient for another year despite the fact the board has been informed state aid will not be provided. The school is the only one room school in the county.

"Because of the excessive cost in continuing these one-room schools, not only to the State of Ohio but also to your district, we are advising you that we will not pay for the school as a one teacher school for the year 1939-40," Dick Smith, of the State Department of Education, advised the board by letter Saturday.

The school has been receiving $1,150 from the state. Until last year the school had been operated on a two room basis.

The board voted to operate the school for another year and will ask George E. Gerhardt, county prosecutor, to determine if the state can withhold money from the school. If state funds are not received, the school will be operated at the expense of the district. There are four grades in the school with Mrs. Erma T. Young as teacher. Average daily attendance of the school last year was 11 pupils. It was believed the enrollment would be between 15 and 20 this year.

Members of the board of education of Scioto township are Virgil Hill, president; William Rush, vice president; Guy Gulick, William Beavers, and Miss Mabel Thompson, Harold Beavers is clerk.

Plans for the opening of Scioto township school in Commercial Point on September 5 were announced Tuesday by Ralph A. Francis, superintendent. The school will open at 9 a. m. and remain open throughout the day. There will be registration for freshmen and sophomores in the high school building September 1 from 1 to 4 p. m. Juniors and seniors will register during the same hours on September 2.

The faculty includes Mr. Francis, superintendent, history and mathematics, Miss Sara Ray, first and second grades; Elizabeth Dennis, second and third grades; Ruby Kegg, fourth grade; Winona Stonerock, fifth grade; Evelyn W. Grace, sixth grade; Chestora Dountz, music; Raymond Hackney, science and manual arts; Paul Hogan, mathematics and physical education; Ethel Fortune, English and Latin; Eloise Simpkins, Commerce and science, and Dorothy Beckett, home economics and physical education.

YOU'VE heard a lot about the modern wonders of mass production—how it brings down the cost of things you buy—how it makes possible most of the modern comforts we enjoy.

But did you ever stop to think that modern mass production would be impossible if there were no mass transportation to carry the raw materials to the factories and carry the products forth to every corner of the land?

The only nation-wide mass transportation in America is the railroads, with their 240,000 miles of super-highways built and maintained by private enterprise.

Over these super-highways travel some 1,760,000 freight cars—rolling up an average total of 13,000 miles per car each year. These cars, linked together in trains and pulled by a single power plant, do a mass transportation job which no other common carrier could begin to handle—and at an average charge of about one cent for hauling one ton of freight a mile—far less than the average charge made by any other carrier providing general transportation.

Isn't that what you'd call modern transportation—transportation able to carry all the products that modern factories can produce and modern farms can raise, and do it so smoothly that most people never give it a thought?

When you look at the job the railroads are doing, you can see why government should give all "forms of transportation" equal treatment and an equal opportunity to earn a living.

Scioto Board Votes To Operate Orient School

The Scioto Township Board of Education, meeting in a called session Monday night, voted unanimously to operate the one room school in Orient for another year despite the fact the board has been informed state aid will not be provided. The school is the only one room school in the county.

EDISON'S WAX RECORD

Part of the modernizing of the Navy Department performed by Acting Secretary Charles Edison consisted of installing dictating machines, of the type invented by his father, the late Thomas A. Edison.

As a further aid to efficiency, the machines in Mr. Edison's private office are operated by remote control. In other words, while he dictates his letters into the mouthpiece, the machine which records his words on the wax cylinder is located in an adjoining room, where his efficient stenographer, Mrs. McDermott, can transcribe the discs as soon as he has finished talking.

This arrangement has been a mixed-blessing. For during a recent conference the recording button of the dictating machine got turned on by mistake and the entire confidential conversation was recorded. Edison's aide set out post-haste to capture the wax cylinders, and whether or not any deep matters of naval policy were discussed never will be known. Mr. Edison, donning the headgear personally, reproduced the record for his own private information and then took it away with him.

"THE DIAMOND BRAND" IN BUSINESS OVER 50 YEARS

Mass transportation is modern transportation

YOU'VE heard a lot about the modern wonders of mass production—how it brings down the cost of things you buy—how it makes possible most of the modern comforts we enjoy.

But did you ever stop to think that modern mass production would be impossible if there were no mass transportation to carry the raw materials to the factories and carry the products forth to every corner of the land?

The only nation-wide mass transportation in America is the railroads, with their 240,000 miles of super-highways built and maintained by private enterprise.

Over these super-highways travel some 1,760,000 freight cars—rolling up an average total of 13,000 miles per car each year. These cars, linked together in trains and pulled by a single power plant, do a mass transportation job which no other common carrier could begin to handle—and at an average charge of about one cent for hauling one ton of freight a mile—far less than the average charge made by any other carrier providing general transportation.

Isn't that what you'd call modern transportation—transportation able to carry all the products that modern factories can produce and modern farms can raise, and do it so smoothly that most people never give it a thought?

When you look at the job the railroads are doing, you can see why government should give all "forms of transportation" equal treatment and an equal opportunity to earn a living.

THIS CIVILIZATION

BABIES being fitted with gas masks in England, so that they may live for at least a little while when invading airplanes drop their poison gas bombs. City school children being moved en masse to the country, where by scattering they will be harder targets for the air raiders' bombs. City museums closed and their treasures hidden far underground. Precious stained glass windows removed from cathedrals for similar storage in caves.

The same measures taken in France and other western European countries. Efforts to prevent invaders from killing whole populations by poisoning their water supply. Small submarines with a range and effectiveness unknown in the last big war, ready to sink unarmed passenger ships. Millions of men armed with guns of unprecedented range and power. The "rules of war" as they used to be known in more decent ages ignored.

All this seems worse than the barbaric crimes of Genghis Khan and Attila the Hun in what we used to call the Dark Ages. With the means of making this earth a paradise, with culture and knowledge and power over nature never dreamed of by former generations, men as organized into nations and headed by reckless fanatics seem determined to make it a hell.

If the human race is to be saved for a real civilization, this is the time to save it by marshalling the conscience and intelligence of mankind.

THE JAPS' PLIGHT

JAPAN finds herself in an embarrassing predicament as a result of the German-Russian treaty. That is one of the few crumbs of comfort the British can see in the pact. Incidentally America benefits by it.

The Japanese government had been trying for a year to accomplish a military alliance with Germany. Sympathies of the ruling group were plainly with the Nazi government and they hoped to make Japan the Asiatic end of the Rome-Berlin axis. The Japs hated and feared Russia as much as they loved the Fascist dictators. More and more, in smuggling up to Hitler and Mussolini, they flouted the British and ignored Americans.

Now that Hitler has joined Stalin, the bottom has fallen out of that fine scheme. Russia, safe from the fear of aggression on her western flank in Europe, is free to attend to the Japanese on her eastern flank in Siberia. All at once the "Yankees of the East," with troubles enough in China, have to turn north to face this new hazard.

So already the Japanese are easing their pressure on the British in China and

CASH FLOODS U. S. EXCHANGES

WASHINGTON—One undercover development that played a very important role in convincing Washington authorities of the extreme gravity of the European crisis was the flood of foreign buying of U. S. stocks and bonds.

The day the President made his peace appeal to Hitler and President Moscicki of Poland, a large portion of the 1,300,000 shares traded on the New York Stock Exchange was European orders. The unexpected firm tone of the market throughout the crisis is attributed by Wall Street and SEC authorities largely to foreign buying.

How much money has been invested on this side in the past ten days is not definitely known, but experts estimate it to run into tens of millions of dollars.

Most of the orders have come from London and Amsterdam, with Paris and Brussels also sending a heavy volume. The buying has been chiefly in utility and industrial securities, with chemicals, textiles and aviation stocks favored.

NOTE—Whether the stock exchanges are closed in the event of war depends entirely on what happens in the market. If there is heavy liquidation and a price crash appears imminent, it has been secretly decided that the SEC will immediately order a shutdown. If there is no panic the exchanges will not be disturbed.

CODE CABLES

How heavy is the volume of the State Department's confidential cables is indicated by the glow of flames flickering at night on the fourth floor of the old State Department building.

On occasion the flames have been such as to alarm late-working clerks, especially because this floor contains the vital Code Section and some of the most important messages received from U. S. Ambassadors.

Explanation of the flames is the practice of code workers to destroy all work sheets, etc., at the end of the day. This is to prevent possible leaks to anyone who might search wastepaper baskets. The practice started when the late Frank B. Kellogg was Secretary of State, when the Mexican Government came into possession of secret State Department documents.

Ordinarily the burning of these papers is a trivial matter which takes place in a large open fireplace, and is noticed by no one. The fact that the flames now attract attention indicates the increased volume of confidential dispatches arriving from Europe and Asia.

STATE DEPARTMENT GHOSTS

The tense situation in Europe is playing hob with the nerves of late-working clerks and officials of the State Department, several of whom have been scared out of their wits by the sudden appearance of a grotesque black and red object bobbing about and leering in the window.

The ensuing shrieks have brought members of the guard, who patiently treating Americans more politely. The proudest nation in the Orient is now trying to reorient itself, and in doing so provides a little amusement for a world that finds most of the world's news today very tragic.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE Hour by Hour

Pages from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up early, anxious to see the morning prints and learn of European developments over the night. What a muddle that is over there and in what a mess is that man Hitler. There is a living example of a man getting too big for his shirt. He thought he could do no wrong, but he did err in making that pact with Russia. That action may cost him his post of power. Spain was expected to aid Germany in the event of war. Spain will not do it. Italy is bound to Germany, but Mussolini will break those ties as easily as she broke the ties that bound her to Germany before the World War if indications mean anything. The Duke just doesn't like that Russian pact. Neither does Japan, another expected ally of Berlin. So Adolf is sitting out there on that limb pretty much alone. Even Russia now is reluctant to ratify the pact that caused all the axis trouble.

Britain and France were expected to knuckle under and give Hitler anything he demanded. And those British and French are going contrary to all expectation. How embarrassing that is. It looks as though Hitler has to back down a long way and lose all the prestige he has won or else go to war and lose his country. He may choose the latter course, for he is the type that would believe his face worth more than the lives of 10,000,000 men. But he will lose, thank goodness.

Everyone talks about the possibilities of peace or war in Europe and one man's guess is as good as the next. Everyone is wishing Hitler a lot of luck, all bad.

There goes Ed Sensenbrenner on that old racing bike. Every time I see him riding I am reminded of the time many long years ago when Ed entered a local race wearing a shirt and trunks that just had been returned from the laundry. Seems as though a little shrinking had been going on. Ed started in the race, jumping into an early lead. Everything he had put into remaining out in front. Then came a parting of the ways between the shirt and trunks.

The farther and the faster he rode the farther those two separated. At the finish, according to those who were present, Ed had many of the characteristics of Lady Godiva. Anyway, victory was his.

Dropped down to the high school gridiron for a glimpse of the young football warriors preparing for the Fall wars. Light, those youngsters, but fast and willing workers. Most of the larger boys are not out yet, they being engaged in various occupations. Not a championship that should win more games than last year. All of which indicates school just around the corner. Some kids like that, others are of different opinion.

A steady stream of county folk headed northward toward the State Fair. Quite a show this year and one that I hope to see, but will not unless this European situation is ironed out before the weekend. Not that I have anything to do with the ironing, but need to be on hand to help with the recording in print whichever way it goes.

Why The Ears Rebel At Airplane Flights

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN MY yearning to be modern and keep abreast of the times, I have felt it my duty to overcome my natural repugnance to leaving the earth, to which I have long been attached by affection and gravitation, and soar into the atmosphere. I have undertaken several airplane journeys in the last few years, but I am about forced to give them up because of the discomfort to my ears.

To many of my fellow passengers to whom I complained this seemed strange; they said they felt no discomfort and the pilots awarded the Dr. Clendinging will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

recital of my symptoms only a pitting smile. I thought I was peculiar and brooded. To my relief, I find that many of my fellow human beings, young and old, have had exactly my experience and that even the pilots suffer so much from it that it is their common occupational disease, called "aviator's ear," in the United States, in Germany, "barotrauma," and by aviation surgeons, "aero-otitis media."

Uncomfortable Feeling. The feeling is, I assure you, most uncomfortable. As the ship rises you feel as if a pugacious little dwarf were pressing on your ear drums, and then something inside your ear lets go with a rip and you feel better for a time. Then the pressure recommences. But when you are coming down, the worst part occurs. Then you get deaf, with an increasing feeling of fullness. The feeling does not wear off for hours, sometimes days.

The explanation is natural. Remember that the ear drum, in order to record sound, must be able to move back and forth. Nature has, therefore, placed it in front of an air chamber—the middle ear. Air goes in and out of this middle ear through a hollow tube—the Eustachian tube—which leads to the throat. But this tube, instead of standing wide open, as we generally have imagined it, is collapsible through most of its length, and acts as a flutter valve, opening only intermittently in response to pressure. One other thing opens it; certain muscles attached to it draw it open when yawning or yawning occurs.

ABILITY to read characters and temperaments is part of the equipment of the fine bridge player. Sometimes you have no clue at all to the location of a key card except the known or indicated tendencies of an individual. The Spades would have been beaten, however, except for South's action. West, a trickster, led the spade 5, on which dummy played the 6, East the J and South the K. South then read East as thoroughly honest and therefore not holding the spade 10. So to protect himself against a possible bad division, he finessed the spade 8, and the contract therefore was rendered safe.

Phantom Ranch

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

THE CONFERENCE on the Brazos front porch began about 10 o'clock, when Rogers and his men, with Jerry Dale and Lorena, came wearily home.

Shot Rogers had not talked with Lorena the whole way in. He might have conversed with her, but when Jerry had told them news of Escobar's raid at the Hump, miles away, Shot knew he was thwarted again. This put him in a dark mood. He had already been tremendously upset by Lorena's coming, and by the fact that he had impulsively fired three bullets at her. Too, Jerry Dale clung to her. Shot could not have hidden near without appearing to force himself in.

Most of the men were tired, but they thought nothing of it. Of one accord they turned their horses over to Midnight and another wrangler, and gathered with the Phantom cowboys, George and Sally Brazee, Jasper Peters, Lorena, even the Mexican servants, on or near the front porch.

Jerry Dale was called on to relate what he saw at the Hump. He told it in minute detail, then answered many questions. He spoke convincingly. George and Sally Brazee sat in rocking chairs—the only sign of rank in this gathering, and it an unconscious one—and Sally fanned herself, not because she was warm, but from sheer nerves.

"You were wise not to show yourself, Jerry," George Brazee said, toward the end of his narration. "In daytime that way you would have faced grave danger if they had seen you. They must know we killed some of their men. They'd want revenge. Escobar has a reputation for vindictiveness and cruelty, anyway. Remember how he raided the little towns in Chihuahua when he was campaigning two years ago? Killing and murdering and mutilating people wantonly? Don't any of you men ever let him catch you! Or women, either!"

With that last he turned to look significantly at his niece.

All the others, too, saw him. If it had been daytime, they would have seen Lorena blush. She felt that she had said something, but any words choked in her throat.

Jerry Dale, however, had more to say here.

"Listen, I want to know something," Jerry clipped his words angrily now. "I want to know what the hell Rogers means by carting Lorena off on any such business as this today? What does he mean by luring her off with any bunch of men any time? He—"

"Why, Jerry, you can't!" Lorena tried to interrupt.

Jerry kept on talking. Not to, but about Shot Rogers, who was present. The others there felt the quick clash of tempers which they knew was impending. Even George Brazee was silent.

"What the hell does Rogers think he's hired for? To run down Luis Escobar, or to force himself on a pretty girl guest just because she happens to borrow his horse on her first day in Arizona? He had no business taking her over to the east range this morning and he had no—"

Jerry was talking fast. Mr. Brazee made a motion as if to silence him, but somehow managed no words. For one thing, Shot Rogers himself—who had been to one side of the gathering there—had begun to elbow forward. Jerry Dale was a broad, handsome young man obviously wrought up about today's turn of events. He was definitely impressive in his speech there, as any big man is likely to be in anger. But Shot Rogers, slender, tall, normally quieter, nevertheless was known to the others as a man of equal if very different force. Impulsive in his own right at times, Shot nevertheless had a something of trust and ability in him which the other lacked. Most of those present knew it. All of them sensed the quick drama there.

"I want to know why you went up there with him," remarked Jerry.

"You are doing a powerful lot of talking," Shot said slowly, when he had come near to Jerry Dale. "You are asking a lot of questions."

"You're damn tootin' I am, Rogers. Now listen to me. You may think you're the king bee around here just because you're hired to lead the fighting men. Or because you won a medal or two with your guns. Well, listen, all that don't make a damn. So far you've managed to be somewhere else every time Escobar's been around. Usually you're to be found with Miss Lorena!"

Then Shot said a surprising thing. "I ain't accustomed to hear you say 'Miss' Lorena, Dale. You called her plain Lorena from the first day. How come you pick up the Miss now?"

The speech startled everybody, including Lorena herself. Partly because it was true, and mainly because Shot had spoken so mildly instead of flaring up in anger. "Stop all this nonsense!" George Brazee commanded. When George Brazee wanted to, he could roar. His big voice boomed out impressively now. "Jerry, if you've got a chip on your shoulder about something, then you better go to bed. You've been out all last night and all day today. You may not feel it, but you need rest."

"At the same time, there's some truth in what he says. I mean, it seems to me it's important to know why Lorena happened to be up there beyond Miners' arroyo with the hired fighting men, leaving her aunt here distracted with worry, when she had no business up there at all. Now, Lorena, you are a guest in this house and a grown one at that, but if Shot Rogers figures to mix his courting with—"

"Uncle George!" Lorena interrupted. "You said I was a grown person. So I am, then. I do apologize to Aunt Sally, and to you. But I want you all to know that my presence in Miners' arroyo was as much a surprise to Mr. Rogers as it was to Jerry Dale or you. Shot Rogers even tried to kill me. I mean he shot at me with his rifle."

The people all stared at her, deeply interested. Lorena was wide-eyed, but she lifted her pretty chin just a little. Even in the dim moon glow there they could see the challenge in her.

"And that, Mr. Jerry Dale," she said evenly, "I'm afraid is none of your business!"

Chic Lines For Fall

THE GIRL who likes clothes which practically take care of themselves should look twice at the dress and coat shown today. Seaming and stitching are responsible for smart lines. The dress is a soft, herringbone twill. It's zippered down the bodice and has two slit pockets. Colors include fall's browns, blues and greens. The coat is made of a crunchy wool, new this season, and is notable for its chiseled waistline and sassy skirt. Besides gold, it comes in grape, a deep blue, wine rust, evergreen and black. Unlike plain woolen surfaces, this fabric takes lots of sitting-on without showing a wrinkle.

Correct Cutting of Gladiolus Blooms

Gladiolus spikes should be cut in the cool of early morning, or late evening. A slanting cut of the stem allows more surface to absorb water. Soak the flowers up to their necks in water before arranging, or overnight when they are not on display.

"Glad" spikes can be cut when the two lower florets are open, as shown in today's Garden-Graph. The other florets will gradually open in the house. Remove the lower florets as they wither. When just the tips are left, they can be "floated" in a shallow dish of water.

Cut the spikes with only one or two leaves, since the rest of the foliage is needed to supply the bulb with food for next year's bloom. The removal of too much foliage weakens the corns and bulbets for next year.

Chic Lines For Fall

The dress is a soft, herringbone twill. It's zippered down the bodice and has two slit pockets. Colors include fall's browns, blues and greens. The coat is made of a crunchy wool, new this season, and is notable for its chiseled waistline and sassy skirt. Besides gold, it comes in grape, a deep blue, wine rust, evergreen and black. DONOVAN NOT TO HANDLE NOVA, GALENTO FIGHT

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—As a result of his widely criticized refereeing in the Lou Ambers-Henry Armstrong lightweight championship bout last week, Arthur Donovan has been definitely eliminated from consideration as third man for the Tony Galento-Lou Nova heavyweight engagement at Philadelphia next Thursday night, according to a gentleman who seems to know. Moreover, the successor to Donovan, who had been tentatively decided upon, has been selected, the same being George Blake, of Los Angeles.

The switch in officials for the Philadelphia engagement was revealed sub rosa as principals in the Ambers-Armstrong controversy a la post mortem prepared to appear before the New York Boxing Commission today, presumably to be reprimanded and possibly suspended.

Referee Donovan was to be there along with Eddie Mead, Armstrong's pilot, who will be asked to explain specifically what he meant by asserting that he was robbed of the decision, and Al Weil, manager of Ambers. Meanwhile, and thereafter, Philadelphia is going to go along without Donovan and send all the way to California for Blake, if he is willing. If not, they will find somebody else.

RED BIRDS IN VICTORY OVER MILLERS, 10 TO 8

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29—Kansas City had a three-game lead over the American Association field today, thanks to Columbus' 10 to 8 victory over the second-place Minneapolis Millers.

As Kansas City enjoyed a day of rest, the Birds went down before the 10 to 8 victory over the Columbus hurlers.

Louisville held on to fourth place with a double victory over Milwaukee, 2 to 0 and 8 to 6. The Colonels' lead over the fifth place St. Paul club increased to two and one-half as the Saints lost to Toledo, 8 to 1.

BETTY M. STARDRIFT AND PETER PATCH WIN RACES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29—A 2-year-old pace and the 2:17 trot were on the harness-racing schedule at the state fair today as victories were marked up to Betty M. Stardrift and Peter Patch.

Betty M., driven by Roy Line, of La Porte, Ind., won the 2:20 pace in straight heats while Stardrift, driven by Clint Hodgins, Cleveland, duplicated her feat in the 2:21 trot. Peter Patch, driven by Wayne Smart, Delaware, had little trouble in taking the 2:13 trot in straight heats.

At this writing no athlete is certain of his position; too many of the available lettermen have not been able to get into their uniforms yet to permit a selection of a first team.

Harold Smith, backfield star of the 1938 team, swung into action at Monday's drill along with Clark Martin, a back last year but a line candidate this Fall, and tall Paul Jackson, dusky candidate for an end berth. Still noticeable by their absence are Harold Hill, tackle veteran, who is in army camp; Hulse Hays, letterman in the line last year; Marvin Jenkins, backfield speedster, who has appeared for only one practice, and Russ Liston, who has taken part in the same number of drills. Paul Walters and Tom Harden are awaiting recovery from operations before they report.

Assistant Coach Tom Armstrong has been under the weather the last few days with a throat ailment.

STORY OF YOUNG AUTO THIEVES MAY CLEAR DECEMBER 3 TRAFFIC DEATH

TWO CONFESSED BOYS SAY THIRD KILLED COUNTIAN

Authorities Will Question Edward Writsel, 17, In Reformatory

THREE CARS INVOLVED

Sanford Burris, Father Of Five, Found Dying In Ditch After Crash

The stories of two youths under arrest in Columbus may clear up the mystery of the traffic death last Dec. 3 of Sanford Burris, 33, of Harrison township. The youths, Ralph Wycuff, 18, and William Carles, 18, both of Columbus, name Edward Writsel, also of Columbus, as the driver of 3 stolen automobile that sideswiped the auto driven by Burris.

The Harrison township man, father of five children, was found dying in a ditch. Two stolen cars were abandoned in the west ditch. Detective Sergeant George Ruder, of Columbus, widely known in Circleville, said that the youths admitted taking an automobile in Columbus, driving it to Circleville and then turning it over to Writsel after they stole another automobile. The Columbus automobile crashed into the Burris car, then their automobile struck both cars, the youths told Ruder.

The three Columbus youths told detectives that they hitchhiked back to Columbus after the crash. Pickaway county authorities carried on an extensive search for the drivers of the automobiles after the tragedy, but were unable to trace them. Mr. Burris died in Berger Hospital of a fractured skull and internal injuries nearly 24 hours after the accident, which happened a mile north of South Bloomfield.

Statements Taken

Statements of the two held in Columbus and of Writsel, to be taken Friday or Saturday, will be placed before the Pickaway County grand jury when it convenes Sept. 5. Authorities said there is a possibility that second degree manslaughter charges may be brought against all three of the youthful automobile thieves.

Wycuff and Carles, according to Ruder, have admitted stealing 16 automobiles between Nov. 11 and Aug. 2. Writsel was sent to the reformatory after confessing theft of a similar number.

The suspected hit-skip killer is only 17.

One of the cars involved in the fatal crash was stolen from Ray Hanley, Circleville Route 3, and the other belonged to Frank C. Whipple, 184 East Whittier Street, Columbus.

Mr. Burris was a native of Plymouth, O., born Dec. 25, 1904. He farmed the Rinehart property in Harrison township.

Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt and one of Sheriff Charles Radcliff's deputies expect to go to Mansfield to question Writsel.

PASTOR ADMITS PLOT TO MURDER OWN DAUGHTER

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 29.—Remorse and hysteria today overcame the Rev. Walter Dworecki, 42, a Polish Baptist minister, from whom police announced they had obtained a confession admitting he had arranged to have his daughter, Wanda, 18, murdered for a $100 fee.

Murder charges were filed against the father and Peter Shewchuk, 21, of Chester, Pa., who, police alleged, was promised the $100 but never received it. The father who had taken out a total of $5,600 insurance on the girl, the last $1,000 of it on March 9, broke down after hours of grilling. Held as a material witness was Joseph F. Rocco, 42, of Philadelphia.

When the father reported Wanda missing last Aug. 8 and then wept and moaned when he identified her broken body in a morgue, he knew at the time his daughter had been murdered, it was charged by Prosecutor Samuel P. Orlando. Shewchuk confessed strangling the girl in the crook of his elbow and then bashing in her head with a rock, Orlando said.

Tall, blond and hard-muscled, Shewchuk has served two reformatory terms, police said. And Rev. Dworecki, although he reached pious sermons and induced Shewchuk to abandon drinking and smoking, had a record of three arrests, the latest in Chester on an arson charge.

Orlando said suspicion had attached to the father from the very first on discovery of the large amount of insurance on the girl's life.

agents and G-men, both of whom made investigations of the anti-Semitic leader, had overlooked.

This device, he testified, consisted simply of cashing postoffice money orders at postoffice windows instead of depositing them in banks where a record would be made. Barker said that the records of the Asheville, N. C., postoffice show that during the period, Sept. 1, 1937-July 8, 1939, there were 5,418 such money orders cashed amounting to $34,362.

Only 38 money orders during that period were placed in banks for collection, he testified.

In addition Barker offered bank records which he said showed that in 1932 through a series of transactions, Pelley had diverted $110,000 from the revenue of a publishing corporation which he operated into his own personal account and the account of another corporation which he founded. The publishing corporation, Galahad Press, went bankrupt as a result, setting creditors and stockholders claims totaling $33,000 for $1,300.

MARKET RALLIES AS WAR DANGER FADES SLIGHTLY

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The stock market rallied one to more than two points today, taking a more hopeful view on the European crisis while awaiting Hitler's reply to England's note. A few of the highpriced stocks did better than the average, with Du Pont up almost four points.

Grains held to their pattern of moving contrary to stocks, wheat dropping three cents a bushel in Winnipeg and slightly less at Chicago. Cotton recovered almost all of yesterday's break of more than $1 a bale. Other commodities were steady in generally quiet dealings. In the stock market Chrysler, Westinghouse and Union Carbide featured with gains of two or more points. Close behind were General Motors, Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, American Smelting, U. S. Rubber and Eastman Kodak.

The uptrend was slowed late in the second hour, but the list maintained a strong undertone.

MORE AVIATORS READY TO SEEK PLANE RECORDS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29.—Five speed pilots waited today at Cleveland airport for hazy atmospheric conditions to clear before they start their qualifying speed trials for the Thompson trophy and Greve races, features of the National Air Races.

Earl Ortman, second place winner last year, was given the best chance to approach or equal the world record speed, for a closed course, set yesterday by Col. Roscoe Turner, last year's winner.

Turner's qualifying time for two laps was 297.767 miles an hour. On one lap he hit the speed of 299.003 miles an hour, which a National Aeronautics Association official said would be regarded as a record although it was not set in a race.

Other first day qualifiers were Tony Levier and Lieut. Joseph Mackey.

On hand for their speed tests today were Ortmann, Harry Crosby, Lee Williams, Art Chester, and George Bryar of Columbus. Other aerial speedsters were expected to arrive this afternoon and tomorrow in time for their tests.

The races will be held Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day.

tions for bus drivers." The board owns the bus bodies used on privately owned chassis last year.

Under present plans the Muhlenberg pupils will attend Jackson's opening sessions next Monday.

Not only is the Muhlenberg board defying orders of the County Board of Education in ordering its high school pupils to Jackson, but it is going ahead with plans to open the grade school at Darbyville. The county office has instructed the Monroe board to employ Darbyville grade teachers. John Weidinger, of New Holland, has been employed by the Muhlenberg group as grade principal and teacher of the seventh and eighth grades. Miss Vera Zaenglein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Zaenglein of Circleville, has been hired as first and second grade teacher and music instructor. Teachers are being sought for the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades, two persons to be hired.

The possibility loomed Tuesday that some of Muhlenberg's high school pupils would attend Monroe school with a few going to Derby. Most, the board believes, will go to Jackson.

Members of the board include William Wright, vice president, who has been acting as chairman; S. C. Weidinger, Glen Hamilton and Arthur Radcliff.

BRICKER VISITS FAIR TO INSPECT JUNIOR EXHIBIT

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29.—Governor Bricker today was to personally inspect junior fair exhibits at the Ohio State Fair to-day, the fourth day of the annual exposition.

An attendance of approximately 30,000 was expected to be on the grounds as the Governor dedicates the new junior fair livestock building. The new building cost $160,000 and will be presented by the governor to Don Bernard, New Vienna, junior fair board president.

Paid admissions yesterday totaled 21,782. Win Kinnam, fair manager said. This far exceeded last year's attendance on Monday, Kinnam declared.

Meanwhile, a petition, signed by 400 exhibitors and asking that the "deplorable conditions under which Ohio boys and girls are forced to house their swine exhibits" be corrected, went to State Agriculture Director John T. Brown.

LONDON AWAITS HITLER'S REPLY

the Fuehrer's reply to England is sent with Il Duce's personal agreement to every word.

Meanwhile, the tension in Berlin slackened noticeably, although the delicacy of the situation generally cannot be exaggerated. It is expected sooner or later that Hitler will lay his case before the Reichstag.

Among the rumors flooding the Nazi capital was one report that "a high foreign personality" is being awaited in Berlin. Such a visitor might be Premier Molotov of Soviet Russia or President Ignace Moscicki of Poland.

But there was nothing on which to base such speculation but unconfirmed rumor.

Whether Hitler eventually will accept anything less "in principle" than Danzig and the Corridor remains to be seen. But the feeling in the air was that there would be some sort of get-together among Europe's leading statesmen within the next few days to climax recent feverish diplomatic activity.

Among the speculative angles was that Britain had proposed a truce to cover a "period of negotiations with Warsaw" with the view of establishing an arbitration commission to liquidate the Danzig and Corridor problems within a fixed period.

It was also reported that Britain had offered to place wider European issues on the table for formulation of a "European and African peace map." This, however, could not be confirmed.

Meanwhile, military preparations continued throughout Germany. Troops on the German-Polish frontier were on an alert footing, while German soldiers also took up positions in Slovakia.

"Final Answer" Sent

Great Britain's "final answer" to Hitler's note demanding return of Danzig and the Polish Corridor "was handed to him last night," Chamberlain said. He indicated that he had no intention of publishing the text of the notes immediately.

Crowds lined the entire route taken by Chamberlain from 10 Downing Street to the House of Commons. The prime minister, accompanied by Mrs. Chamberlain, was cheered throughout the way.

The house was packed to overflowing. Scores of prominent persons were present in the galleries, including the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester.

In the course of his statement, Chamberlain said that "the alleged verbatim transcript of the government's note published today is an invention from beginning to end."

"At this moment," he continued, "the position is one of awaiting Hitler's reply."

agents and G-men, both of whom made investigations of the anti-Semitic leader, had overlooked.

This device, he testified, consisted simply of cashing postoffice money orders at postoffice windows instead of depositing them in banks where a record would be made. Barker said that the records of the Asheville, N. C., postoffice show that during the period, Sept. 1, 1937-July 8, 1939, there were 5,418 such money orders cashed amounting to $34,362.

Only 38 money orders during that period were placed in banks for collection, he testified.

In addition Barker offered bank records which he said showed that in 1932 through a series of transactions, Pelley had diverted $110,000 from the revenue of a publishing corporation which he operated into his own personal account and the account of another corporation which he founded. The publishing corporation, Galahad Press, went bankrupt as a result, setting creditors and stockholders claims totaling $33,000 for $1,300.

MARKET RALLIES AS WAR DANGER FADES SLIGHTLY

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—The stock market rallied one to more than two points today, taking a more hopeful view on the European crisis while awaiting Hitler's reply to England's note. A few of the highpriced stocks did better than the average, with Du Pont up almost four points.

Grains held to their pattern of moving contrary to stocks, wheat dropping three cents a bushel in Winnipeg and slightly less at Chicago. Cotton recovered almost all of yesterday's break of more than $1 a bale. Other commodities were steady in generally quiet dealings.

In the stock market Chrysler, Westinghouse and Union Carbide featured with gains of two or more points. Close behind were General Motors, Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, American Smelting, U. S. Rubber and Eastman Kodak.

The uptrend was slowed late in the second hour, but the list maintained a strong undertone.

MORE AVIATORS READY TO SEEK PLANE RECORDS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29—Five speed pilots waited today at Cleveland airport for hazy atmospheric conditions to clear before they start their qualifying speed trials for the Thompson trophy and Greve races, features of the National Air Races.

Earl Ortman, second place winner last year, was given the best chance to approach or equal the world record speed, for a closed course, set yesterday by Col. Roscoe Turner, last year's winner.

Turner's qualifying time for two laps was 297.76 miles an hour. On one lap he hit the speed of 299.003 miles an hour, which a National Aeronautics Association official said would be regarded as a record although it was not set in a race.

Other first day qualifiers were Tony Levier and Lieut. Joseph Mackey.

On hand for their speed tests today were Ortman, Harry Crosby, Lee Williams, Art Chester, and George Bryar of Columbus. Other aerial speedsters were expected to arrive this afternoon and tomorrow in time for their tests.

The races will be held Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day.

owns the bus drivers." The board owns the bus bodies used on privately owned chassis last year.

Under present plans the Muhlenberg pupils will attend Jackson's opening sessions next Monday.

Not only is the Muhlenberg board defying orders of the County Board of Education in ordering its high school pupils to Jackson, but it is going ahead with plans to open the grade school at Darbyville. The county office has instructed the Monroe board to employ Darbyville grade teachers. John Weidinger, of New Holland, has been employed by the Muhlenberg group as grade principal and teacher of the seventh and eighth grades. Miss Vera Zaenglein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Zaenglein of Circleville, has been hired as first and second grade teacher and music instructor. Teachers are being sought for the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades, two persons to be hired.

The possibility loomed Tuesday that some of Muhlenberg's high school pupils would attend Monroe school with a few going to Derby. Most, the board believes, will go to Jackson. Members of the board include William Wright, vice president, who has been acting as chairman; S. C. Weidinger, Glen Hamilton and Arthur Radcliff.

BRICKER VISITS FAIR TO INSPECT JUNIOR EXHIBIT

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29—Governor Bricker today was to personally inspect junior fair exhibits at the Ohio State Fair today, the fourth day of the annual exposition.

An attendance of approximately 30,000 was expected to be on the grounds as the Governor dedicates the new junior fair livestock building. The new building cost $160,000 and will be presented by the governor to Don Bernard, New Vienna, junior fair board president.

Paid admissions yesterday totaled 21,782. Win Kinnan, fair manager said. This far exceeded last year's attendance on Monday, Kinnan declared.

Meanwhile, a petition, signed by 400 exhibitors and asking that the "deplorable conditions under which Ohio boys and girls are forced to house their swine exhibits" be corrected, went to State Agriculture Director John T. Brown.

HOOSIERS JAIL LONDON PRISON FARM FUGITIVE

LONDON, Aug. 29—Capture in Logansport, Ind., of one of four prisoners who escaped on Aug. 21, was reported today to London prison farm officials. Raymond McMahon, 24, of Kenton, serving 20 years to life for holding up a Mt. An intensive search was started for Blood, who was serving life for the murder 20 years ago of a Medina County officer. McMahon, London prison farm officials were informed, told police in Logansport that he and Blood went to the Indiana city on a freight train and had intended robbing a hardware store to obtain guns.

McMahon professed ignorance of the whereabouts of Prisoners Riley Lipps, Washington County, and Frank Gearholt, Lucas County, who escaped at the same time.

the Fuehrer's reply to England is sent with Il Duce's personal agreement to every word.

Meanwhile, the tension in Berlin slackened noticeably, although the delicacy of the situation generally cannot be exaggerated. It is expected sooner or later that Hitler will lay his case before the Reichstag.

Among the rumors flooding the Nazi capital was one report that "a high foreign personality" is being awaited in Berlin. Such a visitor might be Premier Molotov of Soviet Russia or President Ignace Moscicki of Poland.

But there was nothing on which to base such speculation but unconfirmed rumor.

Whether Hitler eventually will accept anything less "in principle" than Danzig and the Corridor remains to be seen. But the feeling in the air was that there would be some sort of get-together among Europe's leading statesmen within the next few days to climax recent feverish diplomatic activity.

Among the speculative angles was that Britain had proposed a truce to cover a "period of negotiations with Warsaw" with the view of establishing an arbitration commission to liquidate the Danzig and Corridor problems within a fixed period.

It was also reported that Britain had offered to place wider European issues on the table for formulation of a "European and African peace map." This, however, could not be confirmed.

Meanwhile, military preparations continued throughout Germany. Troops on the German-Polish frontier were on an alert footing, while German soldiers also took up positions in Slovakia.

catastrophe is not yet upon us. "But it is quite possible that a few thoughtless words in a newspaper might wreck the whole efforts being made by His Majesty's government to obtain a satisfactory solution."

"Final Answer" Sent. "Great Britain's 'final answer' to Hitler's note demanding return of Danzig and the Polish Corridor was handed to him last night," Chamberlain said. He indicated that he had no intention of publishing the text of the notes immediately.

Crowds lined the entire route taken by Chamberlain from 10 Downing Street to the House of Commons. The prime minister, accompanied by Mrs. Chamberlain, was cheered throughout the way. The house was packed to overflowing. Scores of prominent persons were present in the galleries, including the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester.

In the course of his statement, Chamberlain said that "the alleged verbatim transcript of the government's note published today is an invention from beginning to end."

"At this moment," he continued, "the position is one of awaiting Hitler's reply."
